BESEIGERS NEAR PORT ARTHUR

Mikado's Fighting Men Are Said to Have Opened a Line
Into the Stricken City by Force of Arms.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.)

London, May 28.—A dispatch to the Central News from Harbin says the Japanese losses during the fighting at Kin-Chou are said to be 12,000 men killed. It is said that these figures have been confirmed by an official dispatch.

The Tokio correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says he learns that the Japanese troops are within twelve miles of Port Arthur and that the Russians suffered heavier casualties than the Japanese, who have taken guns and other material and a few prisoners. He predicts a further surprise, as Japan is now increasing her efforts in all directions.

The Tokio correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says that the Japanese captured many guns at Kin-Chou.

Many Die in Battle.
Tokio, May 28.—By their great battle and the capture of Kin-Chou and the forts around the city the Japanese have opened a free passage way to Dainy and Port Arthur, though at the cost of thousands of soldiers. Official dispatches received from the scene of the engagement show that the battle was most deadly for the Japanese as well as the Russians.

Kin-Chou itself was captured easily, but when the Japanese tried to take Nanshan hill, to the south, they were met with a withering cannon and rifle fire. Time and again the Japanese infantly rushed up the hill, each time being checked by the rain of bullets and shells from the Russian stronghold.

Dislodge the Russians.
After hours of such heroic work the Japanese re-formed and stormed the crest of the hill. It took four hours more to dislodge the dogged defenders and gain possession of the ridge.

During the attack on Kin-Chou four Japanese gunboats in Kin-Chou bay shelled the Russian batteries and silenced many of the enemy's guns. They could not reach Nanshan hill, however, owing to the height of the fortress, which the Russians regarded as impregnable and the key to the Kwang-Tung peninsula and Port Arthur, holding as it did the narrow neck connecting the Liao-Tung and Kwang-Tung peninsulas.

Clear Road to Port Arthur.
Fighting is still going on between the opposing forces south of Kin-Chou, but it is of a desultory nature. Both sides appear to be taking a breathing spell. It is believed, however, the Japanese will capture Port Dainy at once and then concentrate for the assault on Port Arthur.

The Japanese troops have swept all the Russians from their defenses west of Tallewan bay. It is now improbable that the latter will be capable of offering any further serious resistance in the territory north of Port Arthur.

INSANE MAN ATTACKS
FOUR OF HIS FAMILYUses Lather's Hatchet on His Victims,
Two of Whom Are Dead and Two Seriously Injured.

Seranton, Pa., May 28.—Stephen Haggerty, aged 26 years, who has shown signs of being mentally unbalanced, made a murderous attack on four members of his family at their home in Hawley with the result that two of his victims are unconscious and not expected to live and the other two are seriously injured. He had secured a lather's hatchet, with which he attacked his brother Anthony, who lay asleep in a room downstairs. He struck him twice.

Leaving Anthony for dead, the insane man rushed upstairs to the room occupied by his sisters—Winifred and Bridget. He attacked them as he had Anthony, crushing Bridget's skull and breaking Winifred's collarbone. Haggerty next proceeded to the room occupied by his brothers Eugene and Patrick. The former attempted to escape, but a blow on the head fractured his skull and he fell.

By this time the father had been aroused and he and Patrick threw themselves on Stephen, overpowering him.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Hannah O'Keefe, who lived next door to the Haggertys, was murdered, her body being horribly mutilated. John Steitz was tried for the crime, but was acquitted. It is now believed Haggerty was the murderer.

OLD BIBLE HIDES A FORTUNE

Widow Discovers $1,000 Placed There
Thirty Years Ago.

Shelbyville, Ind., May 28.—Mrs. John Wheeler found $1,000 of old money hidden in an old family Bible that was hidden away by her husband thirty-four years ago. When John Wheeler, a young farmer of this county, was married, thirty-four years ago, he had saved $1,000. On his wedding day he told his wife that he would put the money away until they needed it. The husband died a year ago. Mrs. Wheeler had hunted for the money, but failed to find it.

GUILTY OF ACCEPTING A BRIBE

Jurors in Milwaukee Boodle Case Convict Frank Niezborowski.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 28.—Frank Niezborowski, a member of the board of public works, has been found guilty of accepting a bribe of $800 in connection with awarding a contract for a city school building. He was admitted to bail pending arguments for a new trial. Michael Dunn, the city building inspector, who was convicted a few days ago of accepting a bribe of $1,500, was also released on $5,000 bail pending arguments for a new trial.

CHIEF OF ENGINEERS
DIES AS DID ARTHUR

T. S. Ingraham Drops Dead in Brotherhood Convention in Los An-

Los Angeles, May 28.—Thomas S. Ingraham, first grand engineer of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, dropped dead from apoplexy while presiding over the convention of the brotherhood Friday.

Under similar circumstances and from the same cause P. M. Arthur, grand chief engineer of the order, died while attending a meeting at Winnipeg last year. Ingraham had presided at the morning session and was relinquishing the gavel to Chief Stone when he dropped in his chair and expired. He had been first grand engineer since 1873, and was mentioned for the office of grand chief at the present convention, but refused to be a candidate. He was 69 years of age and had been in poor health for some time.

Ingraham's home is in Cleveland, where a wife, a son and two daughters reside. He was initiated into the brotherhood in the Fort Wayne division in 1845 and held several high offices in the order.

LIVES TO LEAVE 205 PROGENY

Illinois Pioneer Passes Away With a Record for Big Family.

Bloomington, Ill., May 28.—William Fowler died at Heyworth, Ill., aged 97 years. He was born in Ohio in 1807 and had lived in this county since 1830. He was married in 1828, and his progeny numbered nine children, thirty-eight grand children, 122 great grandchildren and thirty-six great great grandchildren, a total of 205 descendants. He began life as a shoemaker, putting on half soles at 10 cents each. By thrift he acquired much property, owning a large tract of land in this county.

WANDERER RESTORED TO OWN

Man, Blind and Deaf, to Come into a

Fortune of $15,000.

Glens Falls, N. Y., May 28.—Blind, almost deaf with his mind impaired, Lewis Mosher, after years of wandering and other years spent in hospitals, has been restored to his relatives here, where a fortune of $15,000 awaits him. Mosher went west twenty years ago, and three years later all trace of him was lost. A short time ago his relatives learned that he was in the state hospital at Medical Lake, Wash., and brought him home. Mosher lost his sight and hearing as the result of a mine explosion.

GOOD WEATHER

Crops Are Being Benefited Much.

STATUS OF LABOR TROUBLES NOW

Tie Up of Lake Commerce Seriously Interferes with Business—Work in the Building Line Is Much Improved.

Chicago, May 28.—Dun's review of Chicago trade says:

"Disparity appears in the movement of heavy manufactured products and there are indications of further conservatism in industrial branches due to lessened demand and difficulties presented by new symptoms of labor unrest. The delayed solution of differences responsible for the tie-up of lake commerce occasions serious interference to business, besides occasioning financial loss which cannot be fully regained.

"Against these unfavorable factors there are various gratifying developments. New building operations are assuming prominence and require increasing forces of workmen at good wages. Worthier conditions remain eminently reasonable, and while beneficent to growing crops, are also an encouraging factor in the distribution of necessities.

Country Trade Is Better.

"Country merchants report enlarged consumption and show more confidence in placing orders for fall supplies. Local trade exhibits steady advance in both leading retail and jobbing. Sales of staple goods were strong, especially in dress wear, footwear, groceries and clothing and the demand was well sustained in paints, vehicles and sporting goods. Mercantile collections were uniformly steady and defaults decreased.

"Iron and steel industries are busiest at the wire and rail mills, although there is evidence of declining demands for future delivery, and the pig iron situation reflects weakness with consumers holding off for concessions in cost. Dealings in machinery and hardware reached a fair average and there was better requests for merchant iron. Building materials have sold freely. Receipts of lumber are slightly ahead of the corresponding week last year and larger use occasioned increased country shipments. Much activity is shown in furniture and other wood working branches, new orders being numerous and finished stocks light.

"Receipts of hides are 2,518,137 pounds, against 2,567,118 pounds last week and 1,294,914 pounds a year ago. There was good buying for eastern account and values ruled steady. Sales of leather were of fair proportions and the shoe factories received a fair number of fall orders, prices in both lines denoting firmness.

Grain and Provisions.

"Grain shipments, 2,744,919 bushels, compare with 2,742,345 bushels last week and 3,769,106 bushels a year ago. Dealings in flour were rather limited, and although cash wheat held strong, there was little demand. The coarse grains made the best showing of activity. Prices contrasted with last week's closings have declined, in corn seven-eighths of a cent, in wheat half a cent and in oats one-quarter of a cent. Provisions were in wider demand and advanced. In pork 32 1/2 cents a barrel, in ribs 25 cents and in lard 22 1/2 cents. Receipts of live stock, 265,586 head, compared with 239,754 last week and 269,542 a year ago. Hogs closed 7 1/2 cents per hundred weight under a week ago, but increased values appear, for cattle 35 cents and sheep 20 cents.

"Failures reported in Chicago district number eighteen, against twenty-four the previous week and twenty-eight a year ago."

BIG FLOUR MILLS CLOSE DOWN

Through Bad Turn in Market Every

Plant in Minneapolis Closes.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 28.—Every flour mill in Minneapolis closed down Friday night until Tuesday. The flour market last week took a decided turn for the worse. Failure of interest in flour to be stirred up by any life in the wheat market and the refusal of the railroads to grant such concessions as the millers ask are given as the factors causing dullness in flour.

GEORGE GOULD IS IN POLITICS

Multimillionaire to Run for Congress in New Jersey District.

New York, May 28.—Republican politicians have received with much satisfaction a report that George J. Gould is about to enter politics. He will try at the forthcoming election for a seat in the house of representatives from the district in New Jersey which embraces Lakewood, where he has his country seat.

Gen. Porter Spurns Job.

New York, May 28.—Republicans who have written to Gen. Horace Porter, ambassador to France, favoring the movement to make him a candidate for governor of New York, have received replies urging that his name be not presented.

Scarlet Fever Epidemic.

Peoria, Ill., May 28.—All of the public schools in Hollis, Limestone and Kickapoo townships have been ordered closed on account of epidemics. Twelve deaths from scarlet fever occurred in Kickapoo township.

President of Lumbermen.

St. Louis, Mo., May 28.—N. W. McLeod of St. Louis was elected president of the National Lumbermen's Association.

European Railway Murders.

The arrangement of European railway cars is still responsible for many assaults and murders. One of the latest cases is the murder of an Italian druggist on a train from Milan to Genoa. The assassin escaped with his victim's purse containing $7,000.

Artistic Postage Stamps.

Japanese postage stamps are rated as the most artistic in the world. There is a great demand for them in London at present. The first stamps were issued in 1871. There are few rare ones, the highest price ever paid for one being $50.

PRESBYTERIANS ARE TO UNITE

Merger Proposition Meets With Favor

in the Buffalo Convention.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 28.—By an overwhelming viva voce vote the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States adopted the report of the committee on union with the Cumberland Presbyterian church. The resolutions adopted include not only favorable action on the report, but recommended certain other steps to be taken to secure the union of the churches and to make plain the position of the church. The question of proposed basis of union will now go to the presbyteries of the general assembly. If it is approved by a vote of two-thirds of them, the necessary steps will be taken at the next general assembly to effect the union. The announcement of the result was received with great cheering.

COMMISSIONER HAS A STROKE

Captain Kidd, Government Official,

Has Third Paralytic Attack.

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—Captain Thomas W. S. Kidd, United States commissioner, who was for twenty years or more editor and publisher of the Springfield Morning Monitor, was stricken with paralysis on the street. Owing to his advanced age and the fact that this is the third stroke he has suffered, fears are apprehended he may not recover. He was a personal friend of Lincoln.

CASHIER ADMITS HE IS FORGER

Officer of Defunct Kansas Bank Pleads

Guilty to Charges Pending.

Troy, Kas., May 28.—J. E. Marcell, cashier of the defunct Highland bank, which failed last winter, pleaded guilty to one count in each of the five charges of forgery pending against him. Sentence was deferred. Marcell's forgeries are alleged to have amounted to close to $300,000. At first trial the jury disagreed and Marcell's case was called here for second trial.

M'DONALD IS SET FREE
BY JURY AT BEDFORDMan Accused of Claying Miss Sarah Schafer Is Held Guiltless of the Charge.

Bedford, Ind., May 28.—After being out three and one-half hours the jury in the trial of James McDonald, charged with the murder of Miss Sarah Schafer, returned a verdict of not guilty. It was decided before-hand that the court house bell would not be rung when the verdict was returned for fear that a mob might form. McDonald was brought into the court room by a rumbulant way. The court room was filled with those who had waited all day for the verdict.

So quietly had everything been arranged for receiving the verdict that McDonald's wife was not in the court room. After the verdict was announced there were cries of "Good, Jim," and applause. McDonald's attorneys refused to allow him to make a statement.

The verdict was reached on the seventh ballot. The first stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction. McDonald was formally discharged by the court and left the court room. There was no demonstration.

The trial of McDonald for the murder of Miss Schafer has aroused great interest and endless controversy here. The particularly revolting nature of the crime has attracted the morbidly curious. The personality of the school teacher when in life has drawn the attention, however, of many others than the morbid.

Many theories arose, only to collapse, different suspects received the scrutiny and questioning of the authorities, until at last James McDonald was lodged behind the bars, charged with the murder of Miss Schafer. The principal causes leading to his arrest were the fact that his shoe fitted a track made beside where the corpse had been found, probably made by the guilty man, and also that he was alleged to have acted very peculiarly when in conversation concerning the crime. But the jury has pronounced him innocent and the mystery still baffles all.

UNION CAN MAKE A CONTRACT

Court's Overruling Demurrer of Bookbinders' Typothetae Proofs.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—Judge Orr in the district court of Ramsey county overruled a demurrer of the Bookbinders' union to the petition of the St. Paul Typothetae. The action brought by the plaintiff was a feature of the bindery girls' strike and demanded damages from the defendant, alleging a breach of contract with the plaintiff. The main question argued was the right and authority of the union to enter into a contract and it was asked by the counsel for the plaintiff: "What possible benefit can there be in such an organization unless it can make a contract?" The overruling of the demurrer means that the union has the right to make contracts.

OLD FOGY HAS A STALE JOKE NOW

TELLS A MOTH-WORN ELECTION STORY TODAY.

IS GOOD NATURED, HOWEVER

Thinks Janesville is Progressing Along Well Beaten Paths—Admires a Clean City.

To the Editor: Did you know that yesterday was election day? From the indications I doubt if many realized the fact from the way the vote came out. However it reminded me of the good old days of bygone years when some of the springs of democracy used to feel the facemile of the republican candidate, send them to Chicago and have duplicate tickets printed with the democratic names on them and thus with what they could not have done honestly. However I woke up some people to the fact that even with the Australian ballot law in operation a good old fashioned election is appreciated and the final result did not surprise me. I expected it. Vest pocket votes count and that is a fact beyond dispute.

Of Elections
Speaking of elections reminds me of a story of long—in fact just after the war. It happened in one of the southern states where the negro was for the first time enjoying the privilege of voting. During slave days Rastus had been the property of Co. Henry but now he was free.

I shall not try to make this a negro dialogue but put it in plain language. Colonel Henry was running for Congress. He was badly beaten and meeting his old time slave asked him how he had voted. Rastus replied by saying that he had voted against his old master but that he was powerful in the election. Col. Henry, in reply, said he had no interest in the old fellow said "Here is a dollar for Rastus for your honest vote." Rastus looked at the dollar over for a moment and then wanted to know what that was for. "For telling the truth about voting against me," said the Colonel. Rastus was still puzzled and finally said "I reckon you all owe me five more dollars for I dun voted five times agin ye."

Other Subjects
I see an agitation has started for the establishment of a monthly market in the city. This may be a good thing if it is properly taken care of but until it is established and even after it becomes a fact it means loss of work if it is made a success. I think perhaps one of the most successful markets of this kind in the world is perhaps the Washington market just off Pennsylvania avenue in the National Capital. Of course the greatest number of the sellers at this part are colored persons but it is a most interesting sight early in the morning. Philadelphia also has a good market of this sort on old South street and New York one down by the docks. Milwaukee has its German market but as I understand it the market proposed here is to be slightly different and will include animals as well as produce.

City Beautiful
Janesville is fast becoming a city beautiful. This far the property owners have followed the orders of the health department and have kept their garbage pails clean and have looked to the sanitary arrangements of their back yards. The dense foliage which has followed the rains and dampness of the spring weather has covered up much of the unattractiveness of back yards and from the streets they now present a charming appearance. Our streets are also deserving of favorable notice and the able manner in which Street Commissioner Watson handles his little corps of white wings makes one believe that under his supervision the garbage ordinance could be enforced and carried out successfully.

Where is it Anyway?
By the way where is that garbage ordinance that was so carefully prepared by Doctor Mills and should be enforced and remain as a monument to his interests in the city? It was certainly passed by the council for I read it in the paper but what has become of it? Has some city official pigeonholed it securely in the deep recesses of the official desk or is it to be passed up as a dead letter with Every Throb Of My Heart Was Plainly Felt, and Sometimes Very Painful.

If your pulse is too strong, and your heart throbs so that you can feel the force of the heart-beat against your chest, your heart is weak and needs attention.

This is usually caused by long continued palpitation, over-work, excessive exercise, heart strain, and the condition indicates serious heart trouble. You should act at once.

The very best thing to do is to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, a remedy that will strengthen the nerves and muscles of the heart, and restore them to their normal condition.

If you neglect to do this, disastrous consequences will surely follow. You will have smothering spells, pain in the heart, faintness, the valves of the heart will become leaky, and the heart left in a death struggle.

"My heart bothered me so that I could feel every pulsation. Could only get on my feet. Doctors told me that I had one-fifth enlargement of the heart. I had all the usual symptoms of heart trouble. I took about 15 or 20 bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and am completely cured. I have had no symptoms of heart disease for two years, and am attending to my business affairs, which I could not do before."

News for the Railroad Men.

Engineer Al Helms, of the St. Paul road, is spending a few days in the city. Mr. Helms is now located at Rochelle, Ill., where the St. Paul company have opened up a new branch of the road to the coal fields in that vicinity.

A differential of 3 cents a 100 pounds on grain over the gulf ports from southwestern cities is expected to divert more of the traffic through this city. The new rates, a result of the recent grain rate war, go into effect June 1.

President Stickney of the Chicago Great Western is making efforts to get control of the Des Moines & Fort Dodge railway. Conferences recently have been held between President Stickney and Edwin S. Hawley, president of the Minneapolis & St. Louis and Iowa Central railroads, at which an endeavor was made to arrange for the purchase and joint operation of the line by the Chicago Great Western and Minneapolis & St. Louis. It is said to be Mr. Hawley's determination to wrest the control of the Des Moines & Fort Dodge from the Rock Island. The fight for control is expected to culminate at the annual meeting June 9 at Des Moines. The Des Moines & Fort Dodge would give the Great Western a short line between Kansas City and the Twin Cities, and also between St. Paul and Omaha.

The Lake Erie & Western is contemplating the use of gasoline motors in competition with electric roads in Indiana. Within a month or two, as now planned, gasoline motors hauling single trailers will be operated between Lafayette and Tipton, between Newcastle and Muncie, and between Muncie and Fort Wayne. The only change in the tracks will be an occasional "Y" on which the trains may be turned for their return trip.

General Agent James Young of the Great Northern road has received copies of the booklet "Business Openings." The publication gives a list of the towns along the right-of-way of this line, together with a statement of the opportunities offered by each. Three Wisconsin cities, Superior, Dehman and Foxboro, are mentioned. Superior is reported to have an opening for a wagon factory, box factory, meat factory, linseed oil mill, piano warehouse, wholesale publishing houses, cereal mills, creamery, and furniture factory. Dehman needs a general store and a sawmill, and both Dehman and Foxboro offer openings for stock growers. As to Superior, the booklet says: "There is probably no parallel in the West to the rapidity with which Superior has grown since 1886. It is now the second largest flour milling center in the world and claims that within a few years she will be the first."

Although Western lines have decided to charge $1 for a stopover privilege at Chicago on St. Louis World's fair business, the Eastern lines have cut off this charge and are making the stop-over a free privilege.

John A. Ferguson, Milwaukee agent of the Blue Line, the Lehigh Valley Dispatch, has been promoted to the general agency at Chicago of the North Shore Dispatch. He will be succeeded here by Charles Brown, traveling representative of the Blue Line.

That the Milwaukee Southern railroad is willing to admit other roads to enter the city over its lines if a franchise is granted by the city will be made known formally to the council Monday, when Earl Parcells, attorney for the road, will present an ordinance covering this feature.

Nelson M. Maine has been appointed district master mechanic of the Northern district of the Milwaukee road with offices at Minneapolis, vice John Taylor, resigned.

GENERAL RAILROAD NEWS.

It is again rumored that the Milwaukee road is seeking a direct route to the head of Lake Superior, and that surveys have already been made from Rudak, Wis., to Superior and Duluth.

C. L. Rising, commercial agent of the Milwaukee road at Chicago, has been appointed general agent of the freight department, W. W. Hall, New England freight and passenger agent, will be commercial agent.

A rate war between the direct St. Paul-St. Louis lines and those running through Chicago is threatened. The Chicago-St. Paul lines insist that short line rates be applied through Chicago, while the direct lines claim that the rate through Chicago should be higher.

The Reading company reports the addition of more than $1,000,000 to the surplus for April. This makes the surplus of the fiscal year, only ten months of which has elapsed, $6,172,552 in excess of fixed charges. This means that the company is earning at the rate of about 7 per cent on its common stock. As the anthracite industry is booming just now, it may be that likely that these earnings will be increased to 8 per cent before the end of the fiscal year.

J. F. HUTCHINSON THE NEW MAYOR

Defeated John Thoroughgood by the Close Margin of Twenty Votes in Election Yesterday.

J. F. Hutchinson, the democratic nominee, was elected mayor yesterday by the narrow margin of twenty votes, defeating John Thoroughgood, republican. Although a larger vote than expected was polled the republican stay-at-homes were not responsible for it. The total was 1954. Mr. Thoroughgood carried the second and third wards but lost the first by 26. The vote by wards was as follows:

MIGHT PLAY THE ODD GAME HERE

Beloit and Wisconsin Have One Game Each to Their Credit This Season.

Beloit and Wisconsin may cross bats on a local diamond before the college year ends. They have met at Beloit and Madison and have each won one game. Now the proposition comes to play the tie off in some other than the two cities and Janesville is mentioned as the possible location. Beloit some time ago severed athletic relations with Wisconsin because of a misunderstanding but these were patched up and the games will be played as in former years. Both teams have good players and a contest between the two here would doubtless draw large crowds from both Madison and Beloit.

HENRY C. STEARNS DIED LAST NIGHT

Former Janesville Druggist Passed Away at His Home in Shullsburg.

Word was received this morning of the death of Henry C. Stearns of Shullsburg at a late hour last night. Mr. Stearns was for thirty years in the drug business in this city occupying the stand where the Baker Drug store now is. He left Janesville for Shullsburg four years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and two sons and a daughter. His sister, Mrs. Louisa Best, was at his bedside when he died. The funeral will be held on Monday at two o'clock. Mr. Stearns was for many years one of the prominent merchants of Janesville. During the last years of his residence he was in partnership with Mr. J. P. Baker in the drug business. Mr. Baker having been associated with him for twenty-one years. His many friends in this city will be sorry to hear of his death and their sympathy will go to the widow and fatherless children. Mr. Stearns was fifty-seven years of age.

Coming Attractions.

Otis Skinner's restless energy and ambitions are again in evidence. As soon as the closing weeks of his tour with Ada Rehan approached he perfected his plans for an independent production of an important foreign success to round out this year's work. Before the notable Skinner-Rehan engagement closed in New York he had engaged his company and partially rehearsed them, ordered every stick of scenery, bought or had especially made a carload of antique furniture, tried out music for days at a time to select the incidental numbers in accompaniment for his new work, and by various other activities demonstrated again, that when his interest is aroused this distinguished actor, who is, as well, his own "producer" and stage director can accomplish as much work in two months as the typical actor does in a year.

The play that has aroused this enthusiasm on the part of the scholarly repulsive so even the most sensational loving theatre-goer. This is amply proven by the fact that plays which depend entirely upon incidents of this class are being rapidly withdrawn from the stage through want of patronage. In the successful comedy drama, "The Old Plantation," which will be produced at the Myers Grand Opera House Monday, morbid, sensationalism is happily not in evidence, and its place is taken by a stirring story of heart interest, brim full of comedy and bright specialties. From the rise of the curtain which starts with the old quaint melodies of the South, the merriest romances, and a constant stream of mirth, music and interesting dialogue continues until the concluding scene. The cast is a capable one and is headed by that clever comedienne, Louise McCallum. In the part of Gustave Le Roy, a Louisiana Acadian, Mr. Travlers-Vale is seen in the strongest role

OTIS S. SKINNER.

Skinner is Jean Richepin's idyllic drama of the fields, "Le Chemineau" which in the English adaptation arranged for Mr. Skinner is reset in the fair Canadian valley of the St. Lawrence in the year 1850. The original work was produced in Paris a few seasons ago with Constant Coquelin as the portrayalist and the great company of the Comedie Francaise surrounding him.

"The powerful story of love and double remuneration carried by humble but appealing eyes of pastoral life to heights of lofty feeling and sentiment and all within the simple, touching scenes of field and farm that Millais has glorified in his 'Angels' and kindred paintings illustrating peasant life, aroused the theatre-goers

"I haven't had my way with you for 25 years to be beaten like this."

"No! No! Not that way! Not that way! There are two movements here. Here, I'll show you. Like this, do you see?"

"Yes, mother, 25 years in a right—what's the word there? Just give me the word. Oh, yes. I'll start again. Yes, mother, 25 years is a right smart spell, but I reckon it's time for a change."

The Walton Pyre Stock Company, which started on the road Friday, was rehearsing at the Fuller, in Madson says the State Journal. The dialogue printed above is from the last act of Esmeralda, it is not as it will be given when the play is presented on the road, but it is the way it is being presented now. The first speech is by Miss Mabel Caruthers, the character woman. The second, which is not in the lines, and will not be heard by the public which pays for seats was by Mr. Pyre, who is personally directing the rehearsals.

The last is as spoken yesterday afternoon by Joseph Hazleton, the character man, who has played for the past three seasons with Mrs. Leslie Carle.

Esmeralda as seen yesterday would hardly be recognized as the same play by people who will see the performance during jubilee week; and yet the performance is even now creditable, and those who have seen the rehearsals prophesy great things of the French metropolis, blouse but keen for true dramatic effect, as no play for years has done, and Richepin with his "Chemineau" enjoyed a triumph that took two full seasons in Paris to run its course.

Mr. Skinner is to produce this play for the first time in America under the title of "The Harvester," May 5, at Milwaukee, and shortly thereafter local theatre-goers will have an opportunity of seeing it, for Mr. Skinner has included Janesville in a brief tour to follow the initial representation. He is booked for a long engagement with the famous play in both Chicago and New York, but neither of these cities will see it until next season.

THE OLD PLANTATION.
In the craze for sensationalism, modern dramatic authors proceed to extremes and produce scenes that are for the young Madison actor and his company during their summer tour. Every morning and afternoon the little band of actors labor over their lines for two or three hours at the Fuller. And it is all work. The people are all very much in earnest.

The rehearsals are taking place on a stage bare of any decoration. The opera house is empty and dreary, and the boxes are covered with a shroud-like white cloth. On the stage are a few chairs, some without backs, all plain and ugly. On one side of the stage is a pine table. The chairs and the table form the only furniture. There are no "properties," no scenery. The rear of the stage, generally concealed from view by the painted canvas scenes, is empty, the plain brick wall forming the only setting for the scene.

"It looks funny now, doesn't it?" said Mr. Pyre. "But we're going to have some fine scenery. We have a dandy new scene ordered for Prince Karl."

On the right hand side of the stage, sitting on one of the chairs which has no back, is the prompter. Different people at different times act as the prompter. In the last act of Esmeralda it was Mr. Morgan Wallace. He sat there with the manuscript of the play before him, correcting the players, and helping them when they forgot a word or a line. He had little to say in that act, and when he reached his own cue, he jumped from his seat into his part, waving the manuscript as he gestured. Then, when he had said his few lines he returned to the backless chair.

There were never more than half the company "before the curtain" at one time. The others stood about the rear of the stage, apparently paying little attention to what the rest were saying. But as each hour of his cue, he suddenly became a part of the play. Then, when he had spoken his lines, he returned to the rear of the stage and resumed the conversation where he had left off.

"Of course, we haven't got it down yet as it will be," says Mr. Pyre. "But I think it is coming all right, don't you?"

We think it was. If hard work will accomplish anything it certainly will "come."

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, May 28, 1864.—Concert of the Hoffman's Last Night.—The concert of the Hoffman's at Lappin's hall last night was an admirable success, not only in point of numbers present, but in the excellence of the entertainment. The voice of Madame Varian is unsurprisingly sweet and rich, and her manner upon the stage is so graceful, easy and winning, as to attract all the hearts to her. She was repeatedly called out and responded cheerfully giving two patriotic pieces which secured thrills of pleasure through the entire audience. As for the piano music by Mr. Hoffman, it was exquisite. Such execution and such music from a piano. It was wonderful. At the earnest desire of a large number of our citizens they have been induced to give another concert tonight, which will consist mainly of patriotic pieces. We shall be disappointed if they are not greeted with a full house.

Somnambulism. There was a case of night-walking last night, at a hotel not far from the park, which came near being serious in its results. It seems a young man arose from his bed, stepped out of his window to an adjoining building, and walked along to the rear of the house, when the glare of a light from a window startled him so that he stepped suddenly aside and fell to the ground a distance of twelve or fifteen feet. His injuries are quite serious. Expensive adventure.

A merchant with a big store, clerks and equipment who expects to do business without advertising is like the man who pays a lot of money for fine gas fixtures but hopes to get along without having a meter put in and the gas turned on. "Because of the expense." In both instances costly equipment will give poor results.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

A little bit of Patience often makes the sunshine come, and a little bit of Love makes a very happy home; A little bit of Hope makes a rainy day look gay, and a little bit of Charity makes glad a weary way.

This choice bit of sentiment from an exchange, contains the key to happiness, and it is of interest to note that "A little bit of Patience, Love, Hope and Charity can accomplish so much by way of transformation."

The old patriarch Job, however mythical his character may be, has long been quoted as the most patient man in history. The patience of Job is sometimes a little bewildering to the average mortal, because his surroundings were out of the ordinary. It is difficult for a man who never owned a broad domain of territory, dotted over with innumerable flocks and herds, surrounded by all the luxuries that unlimited wealth could supply, to know just how many bolts he could endorse patiently.

He has never been put to that kind of a test but his wife will verify the statement that one bolt will make a year of him, and if the comforters spread, he would not care to be responsible for results.

The patience of Job belongs to the ideal and is so much beyond the key of ordinary every day experience, that it fails to appeal to the masses, and yet it represents a grace of character, so modest and unassuming, that it is frequently overlooked.

There are many homes where the flower of patience is in perpetual bloom, and where the little annoyances of life are more numerous than the bolts which afflicted the patriarch of old.

That old rocking chair, vacant in the corner, was occupied for years, by a mother whose patience was taxed to the limit, and yet no word of complaint ever escaped her lips.

She had a lover, back in the days of girlhood and when she plighted her faith to him and together they started out as comrades on the journey of life, the years that stretched ahead were full of promise and bright anticipation.

Before many milestones had been passed, there came to her a rude awakening, for the man she loved had drifted away from her influence, and in spite of every effort to win him back, he continued to drift, until he became physical and moral wreck, leaving her to bear the burdens of double responsibility, and fight the battle alone.

Her hopes had centered on the boys, and she had watched their development with motherly care and solicitude, but the home was not strong enough to hold them, and in the ashes of bitter disappointment she suffered, patiently and uncomplainingly until called to rest.

This was the patience of Job, in hard experience of every day life.

and while it is not rare, it is always sublime.

That casket, about which friends have gathered, contains the form of a woman who for years suffered the torments of slow disease, and yet who never complained of her lot. Her patience was like a ray of sunshine in the home, and to all appearances she was the happiest member of the household.

She never talked about the future, or expressed any anxiety concerning it. She believed in making bright the present, and her life was devoted to making those about her happy. The circle of her influence was not wide, but it rested like a benediction in the little field of activity where her lot was cast, and it will continue to be felt in the lives that were favored by association.

The patience of Job has lived in history for many centuries. It is emulated today in every land, more generously than ever before. It is one of the virtues that may be cultivated and while there is nothing supernatural about it, its influence appeals to the heart more strongly than emotion, and the statement is often verified, that "a little bit of patience often makes the sunshine come."

The question of love is so closely identified with patience, that it is difficult to measure it, and where a little bit of love makes a very happy home, it is always safe to assume that back of the display which may seem so trifling is a fountain that is inexhaustible.

The clasp of little arms about the mother's neck, and the warm kiss and assurance, "I love you mother," are expressions of a little love from a little heart which has yet to learn its full significance, but as the years advance and the girl discovers that love and sacrifice go hand in hand, she responds to the demand, and while the declaration may be missing, every act of service speaks in terms that satisfy, and the full measure of love is not little, but complete.

Hope occupies the center of the group known as "Cardinal Virtues," and whenever tested, it proves to be "An anchor to the soul." A ray of hope is like a glance of sunlight, bringing joy and gladness to the weary heart.

The western coast resorts are crowded with invalids who are prolonging life on the tonic of hope and invigorating air. When hope forsakes, the end is near, in spite of the most favorable surroundings that nature can supply.

The mother watches her boy in his wayward downward course, inspired by hope that he will come to himself in time to save him from wreckage. Her patience may be exhausted and her love put to the most severe test, but she hopes on.

It is the one virtue that saves many people from suicide, and that puts men on their feet when all other resources fail.

The star of hope is not a myth, and it gathers brilliancy as the darkness increases. It is very true, and often demonstrated, that "A little bit of hope makes a rainy day look gay."

It was said of the three virtues, by one who spoke with authority, "The greatest of these is Charity" and the statement has never been questioned. It is the handmaid of love and the two are inseparable. Charity is broad in comprehension, while love is more concrete.

Charity gives to the erring, whether friend or foe, the benefit of the doubt. "It suffreth long and is kind, thinketh no evil, is not easily provoked, and never faileth."

Charity stands without a peer in the realm of all that is good, and the exercise of a very small portion, "makes glad a weary way." The pathway of life will be brighter when the fact is more generally recognized that:

"A little bit of Patience often makes the sunshine come, And a little bit of Love makes a very happy home; A little bit of Hope makes a rainy day look gay, And a little bit of Charity makes glad a weary way."

The "Beet Sugar-Special" to be issued from this office next Tuesday will be the best advertisement for Janesville ever sent out. 10,000 copies will be mailed from the office and it will not only reach every home in the county, but many outside. Announcements for this edition must be in the office by Monday afternoon.

The day for noise and bluster in politics, has passed, so far as Wisconsin republicans are concerned, and the time for serious thought is at hand. The party can unite with La Follette left out as a factor, and in no other way, is the Governor large enough to recognize the fact.

The death of George W. Bishop occurred at the Northern Hospital last Wednesday. Mr. Bishop was formerly member of the State Board of Control, and was well known in the northern part of the state.

There was no scarcity of newspaper men at the republican state convention, in spite of World's Fair attractions. Those who were not present, missed some important history, but were saved from witnessing the most disgraceful proceedings that ever cursed the state.

The 1065 delegates who went to Madison last week to hold a convention, might just as well have stayed at home. The cut and dried program went through without a break, and endorsement was unnecessary.

An effort will be made all along the line to defeat republican nominees for the legislature, as well as for Congress. This shows the spirit of the opposition to the party which has sheltered them. It speaks of anything but loyalty, and will not be very heartily endorsed.

The primary law is likely to be lost in the shuffle, but it will never be missed. A state central committee answered every purpose in the late convention, and it is not so unwieldy.

PRESS COMMENT
Milwaukee Sentinel: With commendable pride in the record of a Wisconsin child, Michigan will celebrate the semi-centennial of the birth of the republican party.

Chicago Record-Herald: Mexico is going to have a vice president. If the Vice President of the United States cuts a small figure, where will the Vice President of Mexico come in, with Diaz holding the other job?

Cincinnati Commercial Tribune: Neenah, Wisconsin has placed a ban on kissing. But nothing else could be expected from a town with a name like that.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: Quincy citizens have been suddenly surprised because the local gas company reduced the price of gas from $1.50 to $1 a thousand when there was no action for lower prices. Corporations have often shocked the public, but not in this way.

Superior Telegram: It must be admitted that the work of "beating swords into plowshares" is being delayed somewhat. The sword factories are doing a nice business at present, rather better, it is said than the plow factories. And yet civilization has made some progress since mankind shed their tails, covered their nakedness and made a fire.

La Crosse Chronicle: The fact that John M. Olin is confident that he can establish the genuineness of the Cook convention goes far toward convincing the public that he can. Mr. Olin is one of the strongest lawyers in the northwest. He is not a partisan, his lot having been cast with the prohibition party, which indicates that he was in his sober senses when he delivered the opinion. He reached his conclusions in cold blood, and without bias or prejudice. His opinion is entitled to much weight.

Chicago News: President Eliot of Harvard dined recently at a New York hotel, where the man who takes care of the hats at the dining-room door is celebrated for his memory about the ownership of headgear. "How do you know that this is my hat?" the cellahon asked, as his silk tie was presented to him. "I don't know it, sah," said the doorman. "Then why do you give it to me?" insisted President Eliot. "Because you gave it to me, sah," was the reply.

THE DAKOTA BOOM.

Says the Chicago Tribune—"The two Dakotas are having a boom of the healthiest kind. North Dakota's population increased 75 per cent in the last ten years. Last year 150,000 immigrants found homes there, and this year it is estimated 200,000 more will go there. South Dakota is faring almost as well. The productiveness of the soil is a great attraction for farmers. The Dakotas are not only the great wheat fields of the world but they are suitable for diversified farming. Corn and flax are raised in abundance. North Dakota has a grass area of 400 million acres, and over this whole area the average rainfall is seventeen inches. The farmers of the Dakotas have paid off their mortgages and are accumulating money. As a rule two seasons will clear off incumbrances and pay all running expenses and the purchase price. This is the reason why there is such a rush of farmers from Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, and the middle West. Just as years ago there was a rush of Eastern farmers to the then Western States. The middle West may yet have its old home festivals, as the East is now having them.

JOHN W. HOCKETT DEAD IN NEW JERSEY

George Hockett, of This City, Noted of His Father's Death at Paterson, N. J., Yesterday.

Last evening Mr. George Hockett, 116 Fourth Avenue, received a telegram announcing the death of his father, Mr. J. W. Hockett, of Paterson, New Jersey, which occurred at his home in that city yesterday. Mr. Hockett, that about eighty years of age, and was taken suddenly ill and died Friday. His death was a great shock to the relatives in this city as they did not know that he was sick. The deceased was a retired naval officer and was an old resident of Paterson, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. George Hockett and son, George, left for Paterson last evening to attend the funeral.

RINGINGS HERE TUESDAY, JUNE 21

"Jerusalem and the Crusades" a Spectacle by 1,200 Actors, One of the Features.

Ringling Brothers' tented shows, returning from a tour of the east and the Dominion of Canada, will exhibit in Janesville on Tuesday, June 21. C. A. White, press agent of the circus, was in the city this morning to complete some of the preliminary arrangements. He says that the shows have been considerably enlarged since their last appearance here in 1901, and that eighty-five double length cars are now required to move the great caravansary. One of the features of this year is the gorgeous spectacle "Jerusalem and the Crusades" presented by 1,200 actors and including a chorus of 200 voices and 300 dancing girls. Five hundred horses are also used by the knights in armor. The whole rear of the main tent is converted into an enormous stage with all painted scenery prepared especially for the purpose. Besides this opening feature, Craze, the bicyclist who rides down an inclined plane at a fearful speed and with his machine makes a flying leap of fifty-two feet over the backs of a score or more elephants, and the four elephants and their dog in a series of marvelous acrobatics performed on the neck of a single horse, are starred. With the above and this will add to it a certain local interest and sense of proprietorship which will arouse interest in the coming visit.

To Close Decoration Day.

It is generally understood that most of the business houses will close at 12 o'clock on Monday and stay closed the balance of the day. Anyway the clerks are all in favor of it. Let the day be generally observed. Our stores will be closed for the afternoon.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HAD A LONG RUN TO GRASS FIRE

Flames Communicated to a Fence and a Barn Was Threatened.

A grass fire which had been communicated to a fence and was threatening a barn on some Gore street property called out the department for a long run this morning. The flames were quickly put out and little damage resulted. It is thought that the blaze was started by some mischievous boys.

FREIGHT WRECK AT DAVIS JUNCTION

Freight Breaks in Two and Blocks the Main Line for Several Hours This Morning on St. Paul Road.

Passengers this morning on the Rockford morning train reported a freight wreck, about three miles this side of Davis Junction. A freight train bound for Chicago, on the main line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, broke in two, and then came together just this side of Davis Junction this morning about 7 o'clock, telescoping about ten car loads of coal, scattering coal and pieces of the cars in every direction. The trains bound for Chicago was obliged to transfer their passengers at Davis Junction and send them by way of Rockford back to this city. A wrecking crew was at once sent to the scene of the wreck and the track was soon cleared. The Chicago train this morning was twenty minutes late on account of the accident.

STREET CAR STRUCK A DELIVERY HORSE

American Express Company's Horse Hit by South Main Street Car This Morning

This morning while the American Express company's delivery horse was standing backed up in front of the Main street green house and the driver, John Crow, was inside delivering a package, the South Main street car, number 6, came along and struck the horse so as to fall him to the ground. After several moments the horse was raised and it was found that damage was not of a serious nature.

PHILIP MARQUART HAS PASSED AWAY

Died at Milton Junction Yesterday Forenoon—Funeral at 2:30 P. M. Tomorrow.

Register of Deaths C. H. Weirick this afternoon received a message from W. Wines of Milton Junction announcing the death in that city yesterday of Philip Marquart. The deceased was well known throughout the county and had been prominent in the councils of the republican party for years. The funeral will be held from the Methodist church in Milton Junction at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow afternoon.

Happy West Indian Babies. The West Indian negroes allow their babies to romp about in the open air all day long, almost, if not entirely limbs as much as they like, and it doesn't matter how dirty they get. Consequently they are the happiest babies in the world.

Saltiness of Dead Sea. Mr. Arkayds, in his report of the Palestine exploration fund, says that the saltiness of the Dead Sea can not be fully explained by the accumulation of salt from Palestine rocks or by its originally being an arm of the Red sea. He produces evidences to show that it is largely from the atmospheric transportation of salt from the Mediterranean.

WELCOME SKINNER IN "THE HARVESTER"

A Large Audience Will Undoubtedly Greet Old Favorite at Closing Presentation Tonight.

Otis Skinner closes his season in Jean Richpin's lyric of the fields, "The Harvester," at the Myers theatre this evening. The tour with this play has been a brief one, following as it did the long engagement of the gifted actor with Ada Rehan in the classic comedies of Shakespeare and Sheridan. Mr. Skinner has always been a great favorite with Janesville theatre-goers and his welcome this evening will undoubtedly be another testimonial to the esteem in which he is held.

PRESS COMMENT

La Crosse Leader-Press: Let every republican choose his colors and let the light be to a finish. The possibility that the state will go democratic while the question is being determined is of less importance to the republican party, which does not need Wisconsin this year, than is the settlement in the only final tribunal, the people, of the questions which of two sets of policies are to become final party law in Wisconsin and which of two sets of leaders are to rule.

Milwaukee News: Bishop Turner insists that Adam was a negro and that the white man is a bleached out offspring of the original stock. He says he can prove it by the Bible. That ought to settle it.

Indianapolis Journal: An eminent physician says there is no such thing as brain fog. Now why does he want to go and take away from us the most convenient term science has ever furnished us lay mortals?

Merrill Advocate: There is no reason for any republican to feel discouraged. S. A. Cook will be elected governor of Wisconsin next November.

Merrill Advocate: From the days of George Washington to the present time no political body has seen fit to incorporate in its platform any criticism on the freedom of the press, with the exception of the organization of all inspectors and game wardens that reprimanded Gov. Hob last week. Gov. Hob and his state—paid machine have been treated leniently in comparison to the newspaper criticism made on Washington, Lincoln and McKinley in their day and time. What hurts Gov. Hob is that the newspapers tell the truth. It is the truth that Czar Hob wants to suppress.

Eau Claire Leader: The milk question is looming up at a fearful rate. In Boston the authorities will not allow milk to be sold above fifty degrees of temperature. Milk wagons must have a refrigerating establishment, and even these have to be inspected. The object of the low temperature is to prevent the multiplication of bacteria. Any milk containing more than 500,000 of these individuals is liable to condemnation. Milk with less than 800,000 bacteria to the cubic inch is wholesome enough to drink. There is nothing like science in Boston.

Filigree Ball

By ANNA KATHARINE GREEN,

Author of "The Mystery of Agatha Webb," "Lost Man's Lane," Etc.

Copyright, 1903, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

First.—The ceremony of marriage between Francis Jeffrey and Veronica Moore was fully three-quarters of an hour late.

Second.—This was owing to the caprice of the bride, who would not have any one in the room with her, not even her maid.

Third.—The bridegroom did not figure in the ceremony. In the flurry of the moment it was forgotten or purposely left behind by the bride. As this bridegroom was undoubtedly the gift of Mr. Jeffrey, the fact may be significant.

Fourth.—She received a message of a somewhat peremptory character before going below. From whom? Her bridegroom? It would so appear from the character of the message.

Fifth.—The messenger showed great astonishment at the reply he was given to carry back. Yet he has not been known to mention the matter. Why? When every one talked he was silent. Through whose influence? This was something to find out.

Sixth.—Though at the time the benediction was pronounced every one was in a state of alarm except the bride. It was noticed that she gave an involuntary recoil when her bridegroom stooped for the customary kiss. Why? Were the lines of her last farewell true then, and did she experience at that moment a sudden realization of her lack of love?

Seventh.—She did not go again upstairs, but very soon fled from the house with the rest of the bridal party.

Petty facts all, but possibly more significant than appeared. I made up my mind to find the boy who brought the bouquet and also the one who carried back her message.

But here a surprise, if not a check, awaited me. The florist's boy had left his place, and no one could tell where he had gone. Neither could I find the curly haired waiter at Raucher's. He had left also, but it was to join the volunteers at San Antonio.

Was there, meaning in this coincidence? I resolved to know. Visiting the former haunts of both boys, I failed to come upon any evidence of an understanding between them or of their having shown any special interest in the Jeffrey tragedy. Both seemed to have been strangely reticent in regard to it, the florist's boy showing stupidity and the waiter such satisfaction in his prospective soldiering that no other topic was deemed worthy his attention. The latter had a sister, and she could not say enough of the delight her brother had shown at the prospect of riding a horse again and of leaving in such good company. He had had some experience as a cowboy before coming to Washington, and from the moment war was declared had expressed his intention of joining the recruits for Cuba as soon as he could see her so provided for that his death would not rob her of proper support. How then, had he about she did not know. Three weeks before he had been in despair over the faint prospect of doing what he wished. Then, suddenly and without any explanation of how the change had come about, he had rushed in upon her with the news that he was going to enlist in a company made up of broncho busters and rough riders from the west, that she need not worry about herself or about him, for he had just put $500 to her account in bank, and that as for himself he possessed a charmed life and was immune, as she well knew, and need fear bullets no more than the fever. By this he meant that he had had yellow fever years before in Louisiana and that a ball which had once been fired at him had gone clean through his body without taking his life.

"What was the date of the evening on which he told you he had placed money in bank for you?"

"April 23."

Two days after the Jeffrey-Moore wedding!

Convinced now that his departure from town was something more than a coincidence, I pursued my inquiries and found that he had been received, just as she had said, into the First volunteer corps under Colonel Wood. This required influence. Whose was the influence? It took me some time to find out, but after many and various attempts, most of which ended in failure, I succeeded in learning that the man who had worked and obtained for him a place in this favored corps was Francis Jeffrey.

CHAPTER XVIII.

I DID some tall thinking that night. I remembered that this man had held some conversation with the Jeffreys at their carriage door previous to their departure from the Moore house, and found myself compelled to believe that only a matter of importance to themselves as well as to him would have detained them at such a minute. Oh, that Tampa were not so far off or that I had happened on this clever enquirer! But Tampa was at that moment a far prospect for me, and I could only reason from such facts as I had been able to collect in Washington.

Picking my mind now on Mrs. Jeffrey, I asked the cause of the many caprices which had marked her conduct on her wedding morning. Why had she persisted in dressing alone, and what occasioned the absorption which led her to ignore all appeals at her door at a time when a woman is supposed to be more than usually gracious? But one answer suggested itself. Her heart was not in her marriage and that last hour of her maidenhood had been an hour of anguish and struggle. Perhaps she not only failed to love Francis Jeffrey, but loved some other man. This seemed improbable, but things as strange as this have happened in our complex society, and no reckoning can be made with a woman's fancy. If this was so—and what other theory would better or even so well account for her peculiar behavior both then and afterward?

The hour usually given by brides to dress and gladness expectation was with her one of farewell to past hopes and an unfortunate if not passionate attachment. No wonder that she wished to be alone. No wonder that interruption angered her. Perhaps it had found her on her knees. Perhaps—here I felt myself seized by a strong and sudden excitement. I remembered the filigree I had gathered up from the small stand by the window, filigree which had glittered and which must have been of gold. What was the conclusion? In this last hour of her maiden life she had sought to rid herself of some article of jewelry which she found it undesirable to carry into her new life. What article of jewelry? In consideration of the circumstances and the hour I could think of but one—a ring, the symbol of some old attachment.

The slight abrasion at the base of her third finger, which had been looked upon as the result of too rough and speedy a withdrawing of the wedding ring on the evening of her death, was much more likely to have been occasioned by the reopening of some little wound made two weeks before by the file. If Durbin and the rest had taken into account these filigree, they must have come to very much the same conclusion, but either they had overlooked them in their search about the place or, having noted them, regarded them as a clue leading nowhere.

But for me they led the way to a very definite inquiry. Asking to see the rings Mrs. Jeffrey had left behind her on the night she went for the last time to the Moore house, I looked them carefully over and found that none of them showed the least mark of the file. This strengthened my theory, and I proceeded to take my next step with increased confidence. It seemed an easy one, but proved unexpectedly difficult. My desire was to ascertain whether she had worn previous to her marriage any rings which had not been seen on her finger since, and it took me one whole week to establish the fact that she had.

But that fact once learned, the way cleared before me. Allowing my fancy full rein, I pictured to myself her anxious figure standing alone in that ancient and ghostly room filling off this old ring from her dainty finger. Then I asked myself what she would be likely to do with this ring after disengaging it from her hand? Would she keep it? Perhaps. But, if so, why could it not be found? None such had been discovered among her effects. Or had she thrown it away, and if so, where? The vision of her which I had just seen in my mind's eye came out with a clearness at this, which struck me as providential. I could discern as plainly as if I had been a part of the scene the white clad form of the bride bending toward the light which came in sparsely through the half open shutter she had loosened for this task. This was the shutter which had never again been fastened and whose restless blowing to and fro had first led attention to this house and the crime it might otherwise have concealed indefinitely. Had some glimpse of the rank grass growing underneath this window forced her eye and led her to cast away the ring which she had no longer any right to keep? It would be like a woman to yield to such an impulse, and on the strength of the possibility I decided to search this small plot for what it might very reasonably conceal.

Calling together a posse of street urchins, I organized them into a band, with the promise of a good supper all around if one of them brought me the pieces of a broken ring which I had lost in the grass plot of a house where I had been called upon to stay all night. That they might win the supper in the shortest possible time and before the owner of this house, who lived opposite, could interfere, I advised them to start at the fence in a long line and, proceeding on their knees, to search, each one, the ground before him to the width of his own body. The fortunate one was to have the privilege of saying what the supper should consist of. To give a plausible excuse for this search a bill was to be tossed up and down the street

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of its suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and graying have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus preventing the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c, in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl Street, New York.

Will it lighted in the Moore house inclosure.

I did not accompany them. Jinny, who has such an innocent air on the street, took my place and promissed and down the block just to see that Mr. Moore did not make too much trouble. And it was well she did so, for though he was not at home—I had chosen the hour of his afternoon ride—his new manservant was, and he no sooner perceived this crowd of urchins making for the opposite house than he rushed at them and would have sent them far and wide in a twinkling if the demure dimples of my little ally had not come into play and distracted his attention so completely as to make him forget the throng of unkempt hoodlums who seemed bound to invade his master's property. She was looking for Mr. Moore's house, she told him. Did he know Mr. Moore and his house, which was somewhere near, not his new, great, big house, where the horrible things took place of which she had read in the papers, but his little old house, which she had heard was soon to be for rent and which she thought would be just the right place for herself and mother. Was that it? That dear little place all smothered in vines? How lovely! And what would the rent be, did he think, and had it a back yard with garden room enough for her to raise pinks and nasturtiums, and so on, and so on, while he stared with delighted eyes and tried to put in a word edgewise, and the boys—well, they went through that strip of grass in just ten minutes. My brave little

The finding of the ring

Jinny had just declared with her most roguish smile that she would run home and tell her mother all about this sweetest of sweet little places when a shout rose from the other side of the street, and that collection of fifteen or twenty boys scampered away as if mad, shouting in joyous echo of the boy at their head:

"It's to be chicken, heaping plates of ice cream and sponge cake."

By which token she knew that the ring had been found.

When they brought this ring to me I would not have exchanged places with any man on earth. As Jinny herself was curious enough to stroll along about this time, I held it out where we both could see it and draw our conclusions.

It was a plain gold circlet set with a single small ruby. It was cut through and twisted out of shape just as I had anticipated. How could I learn the story of that ring and the possible connection between it and Mr. Jeffrey's professed jealousy of his wife and the disappointing honeymoon which had followed their marriage? That this feeling on his part had antedated the ambassador's ball no one could question, but that it had started as far back as the wedding day was a new idea to me, and one which suggested many possibilities. Could this idea be established, and if so how? But one avenue of inquiry offered itself. The waiter, who had been spirited away so curiously immediately after the wedding, might be able to give us some information on this interesting point. He had been the medium of the messages which had passed between her and Mr. Jeffrey just prior to the ceremony; afterward he had been seen talking earnestly to that gentleman and later with her. Certainly it would add to our understanding of the situation to know what reply she had sent to the peremptory demand made upon her at so critical a time—an understanding so desirable that the very prospect of it was almost enough to warrant a journey to Tampa. Yet, say that the results were disappointing, how much time lost and what a sum of money! I felt the need of advice in this crisis, and yet hesitated to ask it. My cursed pride and my no less cursed jealousy of Durbin stood very much in my way at this time.

For Goodness Sake

Don't rubby-dub-dub the life out of your clothes.

For Goodness Sake

use GALVANIC SOAP—it does away with the wash-board. You simply soap the clothes and leave them for a time in either hot or cold water and then rinse—no boiling necessary. The clothes will be clean, pure and white.

For Goodness Sake

use GALVANIC SOAP in preference to all others because everything in it contributes to its washing power. Your grocer has it for its goodness' sake.

Dear Sir: Please ask your WIFE, DAUGHTER or SISTER to Read MY FREE Offer.

WISE WORDS TO SUFFERERS

From a Woman of Notre Dame, Ind.

I will mail, free of charge, this Home Treatment with full instructions and history of my own case to any lady suffering with female trouble. You can cure yourself at home without the aid of any physician. It will cost you nothing to give the treatment a trial, and if you decide to continue it will only cost you about 12 cents a week. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. I have nothing to sell. Full other sufferers of this is all I ask. It cures all, young or old. If you feel a bearing-down sensation, sense of impending evil, pain in the back or bowels, growing feeling up the spine, a desire to cry frequently, hot flashes, weakness, frequent desire to urinate, or if you have Leucorrhoea (Whites), Displacement or falling of the womb, Profuse Secrecy or Painful Periods, Tumors or Growths, address Mrs. M. M. SUMMERS, Notre Dame, Ind., U. S. A. for the Free Treatment and Full Information. Thousands of ladies have cured themselves with it. I send it in plain wrappers.

TO MOTHERS OF DAUGHTERS I will explain a simple and effectually cures Leucorrhoea, Green Discharge and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in young ladies. I will save you anxiety and expense and save your daughter the humiliation of explaining her trouble to others. Phosphorus and healthful food will only result in a cure of the disease. Wherever you live I can refer you to well-known ladies of your own State or county who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all diseased conditions of our delicate female organs. Thoroughly strengthen relaxed muscles and ligaments which cause displacement and makes women well. Write today, as this offer will not be made again.

"For a number of years I suffered greatly from Leucorrhoea and painful menstruation. I tried many different remedies and was treated by different physicians with only temporary relief. By the use of your Home Treatment I am now a well woman."

MRS. J. HALLO, Oxford, Wis.

"I am more than grateful to you and your Home Treatment, as they cured me of all my ailments—menstruation and enlarged ovaries—and am very thankful that it was placed within my reach."

LILLIAN E. HAINSLAIT, Milton, Wis. (Trained Nurse).

"No one knows what suffering I went through with it. I had falling of the womb and many other ailments peculiar to women. I sent for your Home Treatment and now am a well woman."

MRS. LOUIE E. HAINSLAIT, Woodburg, Wis.

MRS. M. SUMMERS, Box 607 Notre Dame, Ind.

Send for Book about "Motherhood."

Are you to become a mother? If so, do you realize the great amount of suffering that most women are obliged to undergo, the pain they have to bear? If you could do anything to relieve that pain would you not do it? You are a sensible woman, and of course you would—then read carefully every word.

Mother's Friend

Is a liniment so potent that it will greatly lessen the suffering of any case of labor, no matter how difficult. With this liniment, Motherhood is a beautiful dream; without it, a nightmare. No more suffering, no more needless cares, but one peaceful ideal motherhood is yours if you will but open your eyes.

For external use, safe to administer, and wonderful in results. A word to the wise: "Mother's Friend." All druggists sell it at $1.00 per bottle. We send our book, "Motherhood," free, if you ask for it.

LEGAL NOTICES.

STATE OF WISCONSIN, in Circuit Court for Rock County, do hereby certify that the following is a true and correct copy of the original of the same, as the same appears from the records of said court.

Whereas, judgment was rendered on the 23rd day of July, A. D. 1891, in an action in the circuit court for the county of Rock and state of Wisconsin, wherein the Merchants' & Mechanics' Savings Bank was plaintiff, and T. P. Murray with G. M. Ward and E. P. Ward were defendants, in favor of said plaintiff and against said defendants, the sum of $100.00 (one hundred and no/100 dollars) and costs of $15.00 (fifteen and no/100 dollars) damages, and forty-nine and no/100 dollars (49 and no/100 dollars) interest, upon the said sum of $100.00, from the date of said judgment to the date of said execution, and an execution was issued thereon March 21, A. D. 1891, out of said circuit court, directed to the sheriff of said county, and I, as said sheriff, being unable to find any personal property in my custody belonging to said defendants, or other of them, or any real estate owned by them jointly or in common, having levied upon the interest of said defendants, T. P. Murray, in and to the real estate hereinafter described, March 21, 1891, and filed notice thereof in the office of the clerk of said county, and said notice was duly published in said Rock county, Wisconsin, all of the right, title and interest of the defendant, T. P. Murray, in and to the following described real estate, located in the city of Janesville, county of Rock and state of Wisconsin:

"The south one-half (1/2) of the northern one-third (1/3) of lots numbered three (3) and four (4), in block numbered thirty-three (33), within the city of Janesville, as said lots are platted, together with a right of way twenty (20) feet wide from the southerly corner of said lot three (3) to the center of said street, and a right of way ten (10) feet wide from the center of said street to the center of said lot numbered four (4); thence northwesterly at right angles to said street through the center of said well known road; thence at right angles northerly twenty-two (22) feet; thence at right angles northwesterly parallel to said road, the right of way, to the road to said lot numbered four (4); thence along said road twenty-two (22) feet to the place of beginning, subject to an alley across said land.

Dated, April 21, A. D. 1901.

IN THE GAY RIVIERA

LANGUOROUS LAND OF ETERNAL SUNSHINE.

The Paradise by the Blue Mediterranean Described by Enthusiastic Visitor—in Climate and Environment It is Absolute Perfection.

(Special Correspondence)

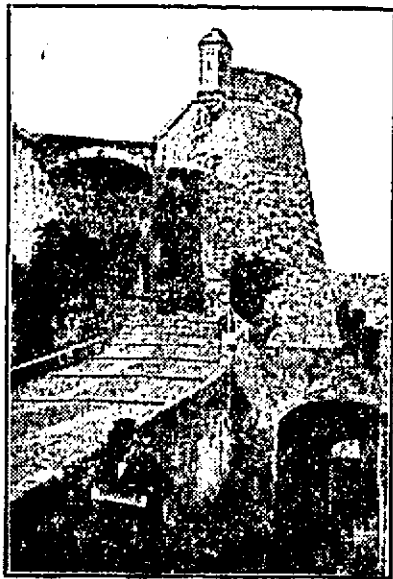

The dead summer is gone; glad February has come and the Riviera has awakened to its wintry life, which is no less more summery than the summer of other lands. This beautiful winter-summer will be half a year long. For the Riviera has only two seasons of the year, the live and the dead—the heavenly and the infernal. Technically the season opened on Jan. 1, but there were happy people who anticipated it by a month, or even longer.

The shops are open again, as after some burning nightmare six months long. I know not, nor can I ascertain, how shopkeepers pass the time between the seasons. Perhaps they also sleep, like hibernating beasts, having first gorged not grubs, but gold. Perhaps they make the grand tour. The shutters have come down, one after one. The postoffice began timidly by opening for an hour or two, morning and afternoon. Now it is open for a long time every day. Meal times are still sacred in this civilized land of France.

The barber's is no longer shut. The picture-postcard shop has furnished great store of blatant weapons for the seasonal fray. When and where the food is bought confounds the traveler, for food shops there seem to be none. The native servant looks after all that, and it is believed that local custom provides him with fitting imbursement in return for his local knowledge.

The big hotels, mausoleums in summer, have cast off their disguise, and are become hotels again. Some energetic man has thrown back the vast army of window shutters; the old tin cans have been removed from the gas jets at the gates.

Extensions have been triumphantly completed after months of dawdling

Old Fortified Entrance.

(Monaco.) but I cannot say whether he was a truthful man or not.

Paris is cleaner than London, but who could imagine that such cleanliness could be as is here in this hotel? In this atmosphere it is impossible for things to get dirty. As is the wall paper, so are the lungs.

Oh, joy to awakened on Sunday morning by the thud of the stone mason's chisel.

Whoever would have thought to look out in the flesh upon olive gardens and oranges ripening upon the trees? Whoever really expected to gaze down upon the blue Mediterranean?

Who would have believed that scent of food could be so luscious as that which arises even now from the kitchen?

Ah, what a land!

Dangerous Complexion Improver.

Two young girls of Berlin found their eye sight failing and their parents sent them to a doctor, where they had to undergo a cure lasting for some weeks. Questioned by their parents as to what they had been doing to bring their eyes to such a condition the girls confessed that they had washed their faces in water mixed with frogs' eggs in order to secure a delicate complexion.

Origin of Eastern Navies.

Russia's navy had its origin in a boat which Queen Elizabeth sent to Ivan the Terrible, and with which later Peter the Great got the "sea craze." Japan's first European type of ship was built by Adams, an Englishman. Holland and Denmark, however, did most of the training of the officers of Japan's modern fleet. Some of them, as is well known, were trained in the United States.

Country life in America. Total value of nearly $100,000,000 of land in the United States which had been planted in crops and which had been the last census. The ten year preceding South and fifty per cent in the North and fifty per cent in the West. Market gardening seems to have increased about 100 per cent in the last census.

American Pearl Industry.

The hunting and collecting of pearls in this country has developed into a steady business, which is good for nine months in the year, the thousands of pearls gathered finding a ready market in New York city and in European centers.

Soap Trees in Algeria.

Soap trees are being cultivated on a large scale in Algeria. Each tree bears from 50 to 250 pounds of fruit, the size of a horse-chestnut, which yields a soap free from alkaline qualities.

SENATOR QUAY IS NEAR DEATH

Doctors Say He May Succumb at Any Time to Illness.

Beaver, Pa., May 28.—From the nature of Senator M. S. Quay's disease, the doctors say, he may live for a month or may succumb at any time to a sinking spell. All the members of his family are with him.

Stabs Wife of Former Husband.
St. Joseph, Mo., May 28.—John Hanlon, a sporting man, fatally stabbed Charles Miller, a liverman. Hanlon recently married the divorced wife of Miller and the latter is alleged to have provoked a fight in which Hanlon used a large pocket knife, partially dismembering Miller.

Excuses a Bookmaker.
At the Central Criminal Court sittings in Sydney a bookmaker was summoned to act on a jury to try a case of manslaughter, and, before taking his seat, asked to be excused. The judge inquired the reason. "I have a very heavy book on the Nemasket Handicap," he replied, "and my partner does not understand how to run it." The excuse was accepted.

Bridge and Chapel.
Monte Carlo.

and a frantic rush at the end, as local custom ordains. Lawns have ceased to be caretakers' vegetable plots, and have become lawns of needleblade grass again.

Carriages are again upon the coastal roads. The Riviera hired rig is like a duke's carriage anywhere else. Its horses are a pair of spanking bays, its varnish glistens resplendent. Motor cars return to their wicked ways, hurtle along tortuous roads, thrash the dust from its soft summer bed. That poor dust! It is painful to see, and swallow.

The electric cars from Nice to Monte Carlo are incessantly gliding along the rock-riven road. They brush past olive and aloe and palm, swing round the very turrets of Villefranche, gaze down upon the battleships lying in the green harbor water, scrape the feet of the high mountains, through the pierced nose of Red Cape.

On the Heights.

is finished. The local newspapers are bursting with rich columns upon column of visitors' lists.

No wonder, for what a land it is! This is the land where the sun shines from his rising to his setting, and never stops to think.

In Paris for one night, I dwell at the bottom of a well, as in the manner of back rooms in Paris hotels. I never knew if the sun were shining until I opened the window and looked up at the patch of sky at the top of the shaft. Here the sheer sunlight has given me up, inflamed eye, I do believe.
